Heritage and cutting edge

Traditional sliding sash windows have been enhancing homes for hundreds of years. It's hardly surprising: these elegant windows look just as good on a Georgian, Victorian or Edwardian home as they do on a modern architect-designed one.

Our PVC-U vertical sliders take all the beauty of their wooden counterparts and combine them with modern technological advances so they are easy to maintain and offer all the energy saving benefits that double glazing brings. It means that even if your home is in a conservation area, there's no need to choose between period looks and environmental considerations.

Windows that are as individual as your home

Your windows will feature beautiful Ovolo detailing and decorative horns that replicate the elegant design of traditional wooden sashes. They will also have an anti-jemmy weather strip for additional security and Ultralift or Torso balances that will make your windows a breeze to open and close.

There is also a wealth of choice to help you tailor your windows to your precise requirements. For example, there is a choice of cills and optional Astragal or Georgian bars. A deep bottom rail option gives the authenticity of a timber box sash where that's a consideration. Arched windows are also an option, whether you're replacing an existing arched window or creating a stunning feature window.

You can choose the colour that's right for you too. White, cream or an elegant woodgrain finish might be for you. But you can also choose any RAL colour or even dual colours for a perfect interior and exterior finish.

You and your home are unique, so your windows need to be just as individual. Ask your installer about the options that will create your perfect windows.

Quality handcrafted as standard

Our windows use the Spectus profile system, which is renowned in the industry for its superb quality and intelligent design. Each one of your windows will be handcrafted to order because we know that one size doesn't fit all.

Environment matters

Our windows have superior thermal protection and excellent weathering performance, helping to keep your home snug, your bills down and reduce your carbon footprint.

Your new windows will have other environmental advantages too. PVC-U is a sustainable product with a lifespan of 350 years. We work in partnership with Spectus who ensure that PVC-U offcuts – and your old windows, if you're replacing existing PVC-U units – are recycled to create a new generation of long-life PVC-U products.

It means that by choosing PVC-U you're reducing your impact on the environment in more ways than one.

Windows that are as safe as houses

Our vertical sliders are CE marked in line with the latest legislation and BBA-approved, so you know you're investing in a quality product. What's more, they come with a ten year guarantee for complete peace of mind.
